Description
There is a need for a password protected location in subversion that can be used to store somewhat sensitive information such as detailed network diagrams and other operational details that should not be exposed to general public access. This should not to be treated as a location where personal information or critical system passwords can be stored since checked out content will be plainly visible. Create a new folder at the root level of subversion: /sysadmin and restrict access to members of the dataone-sysadmin group
