Description

For evaluation: At the 8/21/14 Member Node Forum, several people asked about finding out who the Points of Contact are at the different MNs. That information is available from each MN's description document accessible from the MN detail page, but it was suggested that if that info was right there on the MN detail page, the user wouldn't have to go digging for it.

Questions: do we have field(s) somewhere for Project Director and Technical POC from which we could pull name/email? would that be appropriate to display that info so publicly? if we have those fields or add them somewhere, who will maintain that info (appropriately the MN, perhaps)?

Current solution is a Google spreadsheet which I maintain, viewable by anyone who has the link (MN Forum distribution) - not very pretty but serves the purpose.
